

Fatherhood - Why It's Good To Be Dad

Narrator: Fatherhood, It's kind of a big deal. But being a super dad, you've got it covered right? First, the baby arrives. You'll teach them sports and get them toys. You'll feed them, change their diapers, fix their boo boos and read all those parenting books. Then the next thing you know, you're old and they're all grown up. So let's take this opportunity to look back and discuss why it's good to be dad.

Dad #1: To me the best part about being a father is, I think it's all the little experiences that I get by watching the kids.

Dad #2: It's watching your kids grow up. It's exciting and fun. It's fast, seeing all the changes.

Dad #3: Oh, it's the unconditional love, no doubt. It's the little things, you know, the "daddy I love you". That experience, to me, you can't even really explain.

Dad #4: The love that kids have for their parents is something that I've never seen prior to being a father.

Dad #2: There's always something they're surprising you with.

Dad #5: The best part to me is watching him grow up.

Dad #6: When you finally get to the point where your kids start having kids, then I think that's the best part. When they act up you can hand them back.

Dad #1: It's all those little things, those little things I see them accomplish and then getting so happy and so excited I maybe think I'm taking for granted. And I feel like every time I'm seeing that it just excites me even more about what's coming.

P.S. Remember to refer your friends and family to us!