

The Most Important Thing to Remember as a Mother

Mother #1: "The most important thing to remember as a mother..."

Mother #2: "Probably to always have a sense of humor."

Mother #3: "I think, just being there for your child on a day-to-day basis."

Mother #1: "What works with one kid does not work with all of them."

Mother #3: "Giving them everything they need, especially hugs and kisses, and letting them know you love them at least once a day."

Mother #4: "I think the most important thing to remember is, basically to expect the unexpected."

Mother #5: "One of the most important things to remember is that you set the tone for your family. So if you're kind and giving and optimistic, your family will be."

Mother #4: "Because at any time anything can happen and you're never prepared for it."

Mother #6: "The most important thing I think to remember as a mother is that you were a child once yourself, so you should definitely have some patience with your children."

Mother #2: "Kids have a way of, not listening, and beating around the bush to not listen. So I always try to have a sense of humor and make it fun."

Mother #6: "And just remember that they're learning and, you know being a first-time mom too, you're learning as well."

Mother #1: "You're learning every day. I have four kids and they're all different."

Mother #6: "You're kind of doing it together. Patience is a big thing I think."

Mother #5: "So I think one of the most important things to remember is that mom...the way mom goes is the way the whole family goes."
